PROFESSOR HASSAN AMER
(A LIFE JOURNEY)

KHALED GHARIB AND MOHAMED G. RASHED

Professor Dr. Hassan Ibrahim Amer was born in Luxor on January 1952 ,31. He grew up on the western bank of the Nile and was deeply immersed in the rich heritage of the region. Since his early years, he used to explore the royal tombs in the Valley of the Kings, as well as the private tombs and the temples of Amun and Ramesses III in Medinet Habu. He used to climb mountains, stand in front of temples and their glories, and explore the registers of reliefs and inscriptions on their walls. "One day," he used to say to himself, "I will be able to read and understand these incredible reliefs and their accompanying inscriptions." Proudly, he followed his interest and ambition to study Egyptian Archaeology to discover the realm of this civilization and its contributions to humanity.

Although his dream was not an easy one, he worked tirelessly to achieve his goals. In 1970, he traveled to Cairo to study archaeology at the Faculty of Arts at Cairo University. Today, he is recognized as a foremost expert in Egyptology and Greco-Roman studies, known worldwide for his contributions to these fields. Balancing his work with his personal life, he enjoys spending time with his small family in Cairo and his roots on the west bank in Luxor. He still upholds the traditions of his family and village by joining in on traditional occasions. He divides his time between his office at Cairo University, his excavations on site, and his house on the West Bank in Luxor. Professor AMER completed his studies at the Department of Archaeology in the Faculty of Arts (prior to the establishment of the Faculty of Archaeology) and earned his Bachelor's degree in Arts in 1974.

His first assignment was as a teaching assistant at Cairo University's Faculty of Archaeology in 1974, and he stayed there until he moved to France for his postgraduate studies. After completing his Master's degree and Doctorate d'état at the University of Montpellier in 1987, he returned to France. Then, he was appointed as a lecturer in the Department of Egyptology at Cairo University, Faculty of Archaeology in 1988. In 2011, he became a full professor and was appointed Vice Dean for Postgraduate Studies and Research.

Professor AMER, who has been an associate researcher with the IFAO since 1992, is recognized as one of the pioneers who significantly contributed to the activation of the IFAO. Professor AMER has been the field director for the University of Barcelona's excavations at Oxyrhynchus since 1994, and he is still managing the excavations on this site till the present. Since he always find himself in the field of excavations even more than teaching.

In the field of scientific research and supervision, Professor AMER's Methodology sets a school to be followed in the study of the ancient Egyptian language during the Greco-Roman era, as he supervised and discussed over 200 dissertations and graduated several Egyptological professors at all Egyptian universities.

Professor AMER has contributed a great deal to the field of Egyptology through his publications, some of which are listed below.
